

From Captain Joy Sherman

Winter 2010

Hello fellow sailing enthusiasts! I find myself nursing yet another cold this season. While trying to squeeze every moment into being productive, I guess my body is telling me to slow down. There's so much to do to prepare for Summer 2010!

I'm in the process of expanding Joyride Charters so we can meet our customers demands for overnight charters around Long Island Sound and nearby Block Island Sound and Buzzard's Bay. These places are a short sail to a day sail away and some of the towns offer great dining and shopping as well as many quiet coves for swimming, relaxing, exploring nature and cooking aboard.

You can now become a fan of Joyride Charters on Facebook and Twitter. Today business is more than just offering sailing! I have to stay ahead with all opportunities the internet has to offer. Stay tuned for the Joyride Charters Blog! Thank you for your continued support. I look forward to seeing you on the water this summer.

A story from a life beginning on the water.

The first time I heard the story of my mother being pregnant with me and living aboard a boat with my father, was as a young child. My mother always laughs when she tells the story, though I'm not sure she found the experience so funny at the time. But I knew she and my father had lots of fun living on the water. She described how they would come in to the slip (on their powerboat), she'd be on the bow ready to throw the line and my father would be yelling "throw the line already!" or "JUMP! JUMP! She always did what she was told! One time her mother and father were standing on the dock watching in horror as their pregnant daughter jumped off the boat to tie her up. She was a good sport! My mother spent many years on both my dad's power and sailboats. She continues to love sailing and I love having her aboard—for if there is one thing as important to me as sailing, it's creating memories, with friends and family.

So, at a VERY early age, I experienced life on the water. This life is so much a natural state for me, it's the one thing I know for sure...big bodies of water will continue be nearby.

Starting Joyride Charters has given me the ability to share my passion of sailing and meeting people from around the world who also love sailing and want to make their own memories with friends and family.

My mom Shirley, with cousin Jon and his daughter Julianne.
